Tirgan refers to an ancient festival traditionally held in the month of July (the month of 'Tir' in Persian Calendar), inspiring what is currently world's largest celebration of Iranian arts and culture, taking place biennially at the Harbourfront Centre in Toronto, Canada. Having attracted over 130,000 visitors in 2013, upwards of 150,000 visitors are expected to attend during the fifth edition of Tirgan in 2015. This year's festival is going to take place from August 20 – 23, due to Toronto hosting the 2015 Pan American games in July.

There are many legends on the origins of Tirgan. One is associated with the legend of the arrow (Tir), a reference to 'Arash of the Swift Arrow,' who was the best Iranian archer of ancient times. To settle a land dispute, it was stipulated that Arash should ascend Mount Damavand, and discharge an arrow whose landing location would determine the boundary between the two kingdoms, Iran and Turan. Arash climbed the mountain, and discharged an arrow, the flight of which continued from the dawn of day until noon. The arrow finally fell on the banks of the Jeyhun (the Oxus) river, and the boundaries of Iran expanded beyond all expectations, resulting in the inclusion of multiple cultures into the nation. This development led to the birth of Tirgan festival, a celebration of diversity.

The 2015 programme reflects a tremendous ethnic diversity within Iran through music, dance, theatre, cinema, literature, visual arts and cuisine, as well as a traditional Iranian teahouse where visitors can socialise and a variety of food offerings at the World Cafe. Its central theme is "Homeland", the anchor with which we settle in the diverse ocean of humanity. The festival is co-produced in partnership with Harbourfront Centre. It has the support from honorary chair Ms. Homa Sarshar, award-winning journalist and writer, as well as many more esteemed and accomplished individuals including endorsement from all three levels of government.
